

Abstract

Electrode holder with an electrode cooling device on its underside, said electrode cooling device being electrically insulated from the electrode holder in order to avoid damage by arcing. To improve the protection of the electrode holder, the cooling device essentially covers the underside of said holder. To improve the spray cooling, the nozzles are equipped with a compressed air supply.